BROTHERS FIGHT.

George and Jake Idemiller, brothers, had a falling out at their home in the North End, yesterday, and George inserted a knife for a slight distance into the latter's wound was dressed by Dr. Spargo, and George arrested by Officer Troutwine. He will get a hearing to-morrow.

THE FOURTH ROUND.

The Kramer-Schell case comes up in Squire Haberfield's court to-morrow evening, being postponed from Saturday. This case is one of the outbreaks of an existing feud between North End neighbors. It began with the cutting down of a rose bush. The feud is only a few months old, and this is the fourth round in the justice shops.

AN AMUSING CASE.

There was an amusing case on "Lawyer's Row" Saturday night. Amos Miner was charged with stealing a horse from F. A. Martin, a junk dealer. Miner was arrested in Proctor, as previously detailed in these columns. Squire Haberfield dismissed the case, the warrant being quashed. There were all kinds of witnesses present, and after the warrant was quashed, Miner got away before Martin could get another warrant. Both made for the Ohio River depot, and it is thought they went to Proctor to secure possession of the horse, which has figured in litigation several times. On good authority the horse is only worth a bushel of oats, and Martin bought it for $1.40 worth of dishes.

PECULIAR PHASES

Of the Attempted Suicide of Mrs. Scott at Benwood.

WAS DESERTED BY HER HUSBAND

WHO TORE UP THEIR MARRIAGE CERTIFICATES BEFORE LEAVING—THEY WERE MARRIED ONLY A FEW WEEKS—HE ALSO WENT BY THE NAME OF T. J. TENNY, AND HE SENT HER A SUSPICIOUS LETTER YESTERDAY.

The attempt at suicide Saturday night by Mrs. Thomas J. Scott, of Benwood, has set the Benwood police thinking, owing to a note she received yesterday. The note was from her husband, who left her Saturday morning, and its contents lead to the supposition that Scott was familiar with matters criminal.

He and his wife have resided in Benwood only a short while, he working at the Riverside tube works. Saturday morning he left the house after tearing up their marriage certificate. At 9 o'clock that evening the wife took strychnine, and her life has been in the balance since. She was removed to the Emergency hospital, in Benwood, and Drs. Alley and Eskey have been with her almost constantly. Yesterday afternoon she suffered from severe convulsions, and her recovery seemed doubtful. During her lucid moments she moved all about her bedside by her cries for her husband. Last night she was resting better, and it is thought she will recover.

The note received by her yesterday, read: DEAR WIFE:—I have left Wheeling. The Wheeling police are onto me, and I cannot come to see you, but do not worry, I will send for you. I will send this note by a friend. T. J. SCOTT.

The note was in Scott's handwriting, as compared with those previously written by him, but it is peculiar that some of the letters are signed T. J. Tenny and others T. J. Scott. His wife was married to him September 15, by Rev. Joseph Speer. He then affirmed that his name was Thomas J. Scott, that his father lived in McDonald, while she said her name was Jessie Blanch Sheets, of Pittsburgh. Yesterday she told Marshal Porterfield that she came from Steubenville, and that Scott came from New Cumberland. Their few weeks of married life didn't run smoothly, and it appears as if she brought pressure to bear on him to get him to consent to marry her. She is in a delicate condition, and the fact that Scott tore up the marriage certificate preyed heavily upon her mind all day Saturday, which, with her husband's desertion of her, induced her to take poison. She is about twenty-four years of age, dark complexioned, of average intelligence, and has been tagged over a good part of her body. It is thought she can throw some light upon her husband's career, for his actions were suspicious. He had six watches about his person upon one occasion, and his wife intimated that he was not what he should be. No clue to his whereabouts has been gained, but interesting developments are looked for with the recovery of Mrs. Scott. She states that his right name is T. J. Tenny, though she married him as Scott.

Great Auction Sale.

To remodel store room, O. C. Genter will sell his immense stock of Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Diamonds, Silverware, Fancy Goods, etc., at auction, at No. 1069 Main street, commencing Thursday afternoon, October 7. Everything must be sold. The holidays are now coming on and you will have a chance to get your Christmas presents at your own price.

Remember that everybody is welcome to attend this great sale. I will guarantee that this sale will not be run like an every-day, common auction. The utmost decorum will be observed. Send or bring your ladies with you. They will be treated as nicely as if they were attending church. Come whether you want to buy or not, as you will not have a chance to get such bargains in years to come.

Mr. Genter intends to remodel his store room, and in order to do so he is compelled to sell his entire stock at once. Remember the sale will take place every afternoon and evening until the entire stock is sold. A lot of Shelving, almost entirely new, will be sold to the highest bidder.

Don't forget the date, Thursday afternoon, October 7, 1897, and every afternoon and evening thereafter until stock is sold.
